

CALL-OUT TO VISUAL ARTS TEACHERS

Why does Visual Arts education matter?

How does it foster critical and creative thinking, build intellectual autonomy, encourage experimentation, strengthen social and cultural connections, and prepare students to navigate the future?

We want to hear your views.

Kaldor Public Art Projects, in partnership with VADEA NSW, is producing a short video to promote the value of Visual Arts education for all students.

We are looking for teachers and students to participate by submitting their video responses, sharing their experiences, and highlighting the diversity, vibrancy and relevance of Visual Arts learning in their schools.

The final video will be launched in October 2018 at the symposium All Schools Should Be Art Schools, presented by Kaldor Public Art Projects and UNSW Art & Design, to an audience of key education leaders and advocates.

This is a valuable opportunity to advocate for your subject area. Send in your creative video responses, let us know what matters to you and your students, and help us galvanise support for Visual Arts education in Australia and internationally!

KEY DATES

Monday 23 July: Applications open

Friday 21 September: Deadline for all submissions

Wednesday 24 October: Launch of video at symposium and on social media
