The artist is an identity who creates an expression of their ideas, emotions, beliefs and values. These concepts expressed by the artist are influenced by their time and place.

The Conceptual Framework

Create a mind map based on the four agencies of the Conceptual framework - this is a tool we use in the study of Visual Arts.

Look for interaction and connection between these agencies.

Artwork

Film, drawing, sculpture, animation, performance.

What is it about his artwork that you have experienced?

The actual artwork. "based on something out there in the world"

The relationship between an artwork and an audience is informed by an artist's intentions.

An artwork documents and records an artist's expressions along with aspects of history, culture and influences on the world and society.

Audience

art critics, curators and art historians as well as teachers, students, entrepreneurs, patrons and other members of the public.

Critics say this: "magic trick"
Kentrige shows how much power is held in the suspension of disbelief, and in the hand's mark upon the page.

The audience is anyone who views the artwork. This includes historians, critics, members of the public (world) YOU and the artist. The audience provides a response and interpretation of the artwork and the artists practice.

The world provides influences that inspire the artist to create and the audience to interpret. The world provides a context and a reference for time and place.
